

A black and white photograph showing a person's legs from the knees down, resting on the ground. The person is wearing a light-colored, possibly white, sock on the right leg and a dark sandal. The legs are positioned in the lower-left foreground. The background consists of a field of tall grass or reeds, with a dense line of trees in the distance. A small, light-colored rectangular object is visible on the ground near the person's feet. The overall scene appears to be outdoors in a rural or agricultural setting.
